

Even Without You

Even without you roses will bloom
even without you
there are rings round the moon even without you laughter will ring and even without you birds will sing in the spring

Even without you
skies will blush every dawn even without you I will rise every morn even without you I will dry all my tears
and even without you
I'll go on through the years