

Like A Wave

Like a wave you flood my soul like a hand you strum the strings of my heart you made a fissure in my dam and I'm longing for someone who can stop the swelling tide like a feather bed I rest on you like a bear you hug the breath out of me who can know what will come? will my knot become undone and my heart unchained, set free?

Like a tiny bud love's searching for the light beneath a blanket of snow in this cold and dark in the still of the night who knows if our love will grow?

All my barriers are down, baring my soul defenceless to your own breast's siege will the flow'r in my heart, watered by your touch one day unfold all it's charms?